

5 QUESTIONS WITH 5 SEASONS

3 Tons of Fun

February 2013

We talk to the larger-than-life ladies from 3 Tons of Fun, one of South Africa's most popular and successful acts.

qA1: What is your secret to success and maintaining a co-operative group dynamic within the band?

Unity, hard work and mutual respect. Even though we have three totally different personalities, we always consider each other's opinions and contributions, to ensure harmony within the group.

qA2: You released your debut album "Larger than Life" in 2012. Share some of your recording highlights with us?

Having our song "I can feel the music" play listed on Heart 104.9FM and working with Patric Van Blerk, the owner of Cape Town Sound studios and writer of Paradise Road, which we also cover on our album- that was a memorable experience!

qA3: 3 Tons of Fun has had great media reviews. Which media quote best describes you?

Two of our favourites are "BIG GIRLS DON'T CRY – THEY JUST BRING THE HOUSE DOWN" (Cape Argus) and "DIE VOLLA FIGUUR", a headline by a daily Afrikaans newspaper when they photographed us with Sthe's vintage Volkswagen Beetle.

qA4: Any future plans we should know of?

We are in the process of filming a documentary which we hope will encourage and uplift all the beautiful, full-figured women out there. We're working on branding opportunities and would also love to launch an elegant and funky clothing line for fuller figured women. The fun thing about the future is that we all find out about it at the same time! So watch this space!!

qA5: If you could share a stage with any local or international artist, who would it be (and why)?

Sthe: Oletta Adams is the one, her soulful voice moves me!

Bee: Here at home it would definitely be Bra Hugh Masekela, because he has been around in this industry for so long and remains full of life and energy on stage!

Michelle: Kenneth Edmunds a.k.a. Babyface because I loves me some babyface!
